

University of Ottawa JOURNAL OF MEDICINE

Inspiring leadership and excellence in medicine

ABOUT

UOJM is the official student medical journal of the University of Ottawa Faculty of Medicine. It is a peer-reviewed journal published and run by volunteer medical students.

We publish

- Original Research
- Commentaries
- Arts & Opinion Pieces
- Review Articles
- Case Reports
- Interviews

Our mission

Medicine is both a practice and a science, and it is the latter that pushes forward frontiers in clinical therapy and patient care. Yet, scientific inquiry and writing is traditionally not part of the medical school curriculum. To address this gap, UOJM aims to provide medical students with in-depth exposure to the process of research and to various dialogues in medicine.

A brief history

UOJM was found in the 1960s, but publication declined throughout the next decade and ceased altogether in the 1970s. Since then, research at UOttawa has continued to flourish, and today the university has developed into one of the most research-intensive medical institutions in Canada. Following a 40 year absence, UOJM was re-launched in 2010 and the inaugural issue was published in May 2011.

HOW YOU CAN CONTRIBUTE

A. Submit an article

- An opportunity to publish in a peer-reviewed journal read by your peers, professors and faculties
- Practice writing academic manuscripts, and receive constructive feedback
- Share your findings, insights, experiences and opinions
- Receive 1 MSPR credit (accepted or not)

B. Join the editorial team

- Receive graduate-level training in critical appraisal of different research designs and article types
- Help peer-review articles and put together the next issue of UOJM!

MORE INFO

For general inquiries and updated info on: submissions, editorial staff application, events and deadlines – please visit our website:

uojm.ca

